Choice Butter Advances and Peaches in Better Supply.

POULTRY VERY SCARCE AND FIRM.

Ocean Products Curtailed by Late Storms on the Coast.

AN IMPROVED DEMAND FOR FLOWERS

OFFICE OF PITTSBURG DISPATCH, FRIDAY, September 13, 1889.

The price of market basket materials is not essentially different from a week ago. There has been a rise in butter, but not sufficient to make any marked difference in retail prices. The jobbing price of creamery butter is 2 cents per pound greater than last week. A reliable article of hen fruit is not easy to be had, and when it is certain, readily brings outside quotations. Cheese is firm at a shade higher prices than a week ago. Jersey sweet potatoes are scarce on account of storms on the Eastern coast. Irish potatoes are higher in a jobbing way, on account of light receipts, but retail prices are unchanged. The peach supply has improved in the past few days, but quality and condition are below par. Choice peaches find ready sale at outside quotations; but overripe stock which is in the majority, goes slow. The yield of peaches in the country will fall below the average, and in this section is practically zero.

The prospect for the housewives who have failed thus far to lay in supplies of peach butter and preserves grows darker every day.

Ocean Products. Late storms on the Eastern coast have had the effect of very greatly curtailing supplies of Dealers report that they have had all they can do to meet orders for a day or two, and expect to be short Saturday. Prices of fish for the past month or two in this market have been too low to furnish any profit to dealers. The harvest time of the trade will be later on. At present dealers say they are working for glory, and not boodle.

present dealers say they are working and not boodle.

Venders of butter, eggs and poultry report quiet trade, with an unward drift of prices. Pontry is scarce and higher.

Game does not yet show up to any considerable extent.

Florists report a slight improvement in trade over last week. The time is close at hand when the flower of the conservatory will be in demand. Thus far the outside gardens are able to furnish most of the goods wanted in this line. The trost will be a stimulus to the floral trade. Following are the retail prices of market basket materials, as furnished by leading Bulle in the Wheat Pit Get a Black Eye-Narrow Escape From a Bad Break-Corn Moves Down - Onts and Hog Products Fentureless.

CHICAGO-The bull pressure in wheat to-day was off, and the market reacted quite sharply. Outside support was not as good as noted yes terday, and local sentiment was generally bearish in the extreme. Several times during the session concerted drives were made at the market, resulting in moderate reactions from outside figures, and had it not been for the outside figures, and had it not been for the light interior movement in the Northwest, and the bullish dispatches from that part of the country, a substantial break would probably have been witnessed. One report said that "half the wheat in the Red river valley was still in shock and the heavy rains of last night will surely injure it." Subsequent inquiry brought denials of the damage part of this story.

The market was only moderately active, and most of the business was between room traders. It was a milking sort of a deal apparently. A prominent local operator was a free seller at and around 79% for December. Fluctuations were all within extreme limits of 1c, and final closings were practically at bottom for the day. Based on yesterday's latest bids, the net loss was % or in September and year, % in October and December and lc in May.

An active trade was witnessed in corn, the feeling being weaker, lower prices being established. Transactions were largely in the more distant futures, May in particular receiving the most attention, and trading in this market was unusually heavy. The weakness was due largely to the fine weather and larger receipts. The local crowd were not disposed to trade heavily in the near months. The market opened weak at a shade under yesterday sclosing, and under heavy offerings by several large houses the market declined 160%, was weak and closed with the near months 16c, and more distant deliveries 160% clower than yesterday. Outs were traded in moderately. The near futures developed fair strength. There was less pressure to sell and prices were fairly maintained. May receded 160%, and the market closed casy.

Very little business was transacted in mess pork, the feeling was firmer and prices higher. A quiet and steady feeling prevailed in lard, and prices exhibited very little change.
A fair trade was reported in short ribs and the feeling was easier. Prices ruled 25.65c lower, and the market closed quiet at outside figures.

A SENSITIVE PLAN

Why Brokers Refuse to Tell the Secrets of Their Business.

BUILDING AND LOAN SOCIETIES.

A Suggestion to Assist the Weak Ones by Forming a Sort of Trust.

A WHACK AT CONNELLSVILLE COKE

While there are no great movements going on in local stocks, and no change in the condition of any to affect values, there is a good deal of business transacted in a quiet way that would interest the public, and perhaps help the market, if it could be got at, but it can't. Hunting for pearls in a shipload of oysters would be as easy a task as to get news from the average broker. Still, he is less to blame than his clients, and only follows instructions when he retuses to talk. One of them hit the nail squarely on the head vesterday when he said: "The sight of a newspaper man shuts me up like a sensitive plant. I should like to tell you all I know about stocks, but dare not, My customers would kick."

Some of the local building and loan associa tions have more calls for money than they have on hand; and to obviate the difficulty it has been suggested that every association ap-point a delegate for the purpose of forming an exchange, or in the language of the times, a trust. They would elect one competent man to be manager and have charge of all the correspondence between the different organizations. This central office would keep a complete account of the doings of all the societies, and would know what number of them are making forced loans, and which have a call for more money than is on hand. Those making forced loans would revert their funds through the central office to those wanting money, and would thus equalize the business of the associations and make it possible for an association with small funds on hand to give as large loans ter business status. Oninion as to the practicability of the proposed departure is considerably mixed, some favoring it, while others think it would be illegal. The proposition will be sub-mitted to a prominent attorney before definite action is taken.

The largest mortgage recorded yesterday was for $26,250, placed with the Safe Deposit Company by John C. Reilly. It was purchase money. There were 21 others, ranging in amount from $6,000 to $200. It has been a quiet week in this line of business.

A short time since representatives of the different firms about Fairmont, W. Va., who make coke were in Wheeling, and had several cars of the product of their mines and ovens shipped to the different blast furnaces and foundries in that section. They asked that the coke be given a fair trial alongside the Connellsville article, which these concerns have been using, the intention being to discover whether or not coke made from the splendie coking coal found in that part of West Virginia is equal to the Connellsville coke, The West Virginia product was tried, and, according to report, found to be equal to, and in some cases superior to, the Connellsville coke. But the great detriment to using it in that section is the freight charges, which not only eat up the profits that the coke manufacturers must have, but increase the price of the article to such an extent as to render it impossible for it to com-pete with the Connellsville coke. Since that time these gentlemen, working in connection with a number of Wheeling manufacturers, have succeeded in obtaining promises that coke snall be carried from Fairmont at such rates as will make it possible for the coke of that section to enter into competition with the Con-nellsville article.

The Pleasant Valley Railroad Company which recently obtained a controlling interest in the Hand street bridge, will soon advertise for proposals for a new one to cost about $150,000. It will have 45-foot spans, two foot ways and four tracks.

Concerning the iron situation the American Manufacturer says: "While there are some conditions in 1889 that are similar to those of 1879, there are; others that are not. There has not and it is most earnestly hoped that there will not be any such rapid or as great advances as in 1879. The selling price has not yet reached the card price. There is no prospect that it will immediately. The situation in the country is prosperous, and it is well nigh inevitable that there will be still further advances but whatever the pressure from whatever sources it may be assumed that the folly of 1879-80 will not be repeated."

The work on the extension of the old Pitts burg and Connellsville road, which extension will be called the Oakland and State Line Railroad, is progressing rapidly. The new road will run from Confluence to Deer Park and eventually to Oakland. With its connections it will make a new Eastern outlet for the shipment of coal and lumber from West Virginia

FEATURES OF LOCAL STOCKS.

A Raid on Philadelphia Gas Which Didn't

Amount to Much. Business at the Stock Exchange yesterday was a little better than the average of the past month or two, but was still far below the mark of its high calling. Sales on call were 15 shares of Euterprise Savings Bank at 55, an advance; 10 Central Traction at 3114, a slight concession 50 Wheeling Gas at 30, a fractional loss; 70 Philso wheeling cas at 30, a fractional loss; 70 Philadelphia Gas at 37½, and 120 at 37. La Noria was weak and neglected, but Yankee Girl was in light demand at 4, and Luster at 10.

The feature of the day was a small raid on Philadelphia Gas in the afternoon, during which it broke to 37, but the offerings at that figure were light, and it closed with ½ better bid. Electric and the tractions were steady, as was about everything else on the board. There was nothing important in news or gossip.

DOLLAR OIL AGAIN. The Coveted Mark Touched, but Staying

Qualities Found Wanting. There was a fairly good oil market yesterday. It opened rather bearish, but later on New York and Pittsburg turned buyers, running up the price from 98%c, the initial figure, to $1, the highest. At this point the prospect was good for a further advance. but anxiety to the price from 98%c, the initial figure, to $1, the highest. At this point the prospect was good for a further advance, but anxiety to realize was too great and a recession occurred, the final quotation being 99%c. Sproul & Lawrence were the principal buyers here. The feeling at the close was rather mixed, but firmness seemed to predominate.

A writer in the Oil, Paint and Drug Reporter, who has apparently had some experience in the oil field and in the gold fields of California during the excitement of '40, compares the present cry of exhausted territory in the oil region to that raised by the seekers after gold, that "the mines are all dug out." He tells of the reckless haste and waste which prevailed among the gold miners at that time, and then he goes on to show that history repeated itself in the feverish scramble after the cleaginous product. Crude machinery was used and the virtue of "shooting" was unknown; operators hurried from one field to another at the least show of diminution of the output, deserted wells were left unplugged, allowing great volumes of water to pour in from the surface and interior, and altogether the field was hastily skimmed over without a thought of what results might be obtained by persevering and intelligent work.

As a remedy the same writer thinks that a concerted effort or a combination of operators, or better still, an organized company with capital that would secure for its field a wide area of oil territory, would doubtless find a rich remuneration in adopting some herolc measures to exhaust this underlying volume of water which has carelessly been allowed to flow in, and which would most assuredly give room and place for the re-entrance of both oil and gas in these once productive sections. So that while the figures show a decline in production of some 7,000,000 barrels from 1886 to 1888, it gives no reason for the dark prognostications that seem to impress the minds of some scientists and statisticians.

DULL AND DROOPING. Railroad Shares Weak at the Opening, But Firm Up Later and Close With Insignificant Changes-The Trusts Take a Back Sent-Northern Pacific Gives Way.

NEW YORK, September 13.—The stock mar-ket to-day was comparatively dull, with a general drooping tendency during the forenoon, but a firmer feeling later on, while the fluctuations in most of the list were on an equally imited scale, and the final changes, except in rare instances, were entirely insignificant. The news of the morning, especially that from the West, was of an unfavorable character, and the West, was of an unravorance character, and there was a marked indisposition to trade shown, which, considering the recent animation in the market, had a tendency to induce re-alization, and the bears worked the fear of a had bank statement to-morrow and the expec-tation of the resumption of specie exports for all they were worth.

all they were worth.

There was a marked lack of support to the list, and, while London was a buyer again, the foreign operations were not of sufficient magnitude to have any material effect upon the course of prices. The London buying was most marked in Union Pacific, and served to keep that stock firm when the remainder of the list was dropping. First prices this morning were steady as compared with last evening's figures, but the market was dull and soon developed a dropping tendency. The losses sustained, however, were insignificant, except in Missouri Pacific, which dropped 1½ per cent during the forenoon, while the losses in most of the others were recovered before noon.

The Drygoeds Market.

New York, September 13.—Trade in drygoods continued depressed by stormy weather, and very few shipments of goods were made. The shipping and storerooms are crowded with packages ready for delivery, and no little embarrassment is occasioned in that department. A fair and steady volume of orders reach the commission houses by mail and wire, but very little has been done on the spot for several days. The market continues unchanged and the tone steady.

A HUSBAND'S HORRIBLE CRIME. He Gives His Wife Concentrated Lye and Will Probably be Lynched.

COLUMBIA, S. C., September 13.—Eli Boatwright, a farmer of Catleton county, is in jail for attempting to murder his wife, who is yet a mere girl. She was ill and he gave her a dose of concentrated lye. Some neighbors coming in soon after, gave her an emetic, which relieved her. Upon discover-ing this, Boatwright mixed some more of the lye with a dose of medicine prescribe by the attending physician and repeated the mixture after a short interval.

The woman then discovered the trick, but it was too late to save herself. She soon beit was too late to save herself. She soon be-came desperately ill, and at last accounts her death was regarded as certain. She was suffering exerneiating agony and spitting up blood and large pieces of flesh. A Spurt in Missouri Pacific Leads to That Impression.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE.] NEW YORK, September 13.—On Wall street Missouri Pacific has just enjoyed a spurt in connection with the declaration of the usual quarterly dividend of 1 per cent. Unofficial advices are that the earnings of the company are improving as compared with those of last year. Such statements are not likely to attract huvers to the steek.

with those of last year. Such statements are not likely to attract buyers to the stock, certainly not investors, for the reason that the company is one of the few large systems that withholds from the public the figures of its operations until long after the close of its fiscal year.

It is entirely probable that Mr. Gould will utilize the present improvement in the security market to close out his interest in the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company.

He has learned a little late in life that the satisfaction of absolutely controlling a corporation is more than offset by the responsibilities that are inseparable from such a control. Consequently he is intent upon getting out of a situation that is precisely similar to the one that Mr. Villard, in his enthusiasm, is desirous of getting into.
